Verse 1

I'm gliding high in the sky, don't worry: I can fly
And seven turtles of gold are passing me by
I'm dancing chacha through time, as high as I can climb
I am dressed in purple and lime
And all my friends are bathing in wine

Verse 2

I am a queen in a movie scene
With my face on the cover of a magazine
But in the mirror there's a girl I've never seen
And I look down from a cloud, take a breath so I can shout
But there's no sound, no nothing at all
And that is when, when I start to fall

And I rush back to reality
And then it's no more dreaming around
I've got to snap right out of it
To get my feet back on the ground

Verse 3

I'm stepping out of a TV screen to a place I've never seen
A rhino's dancing, while two iPhones are romancing
And I ride on the back of a tiger green and black
But I can move no muscle at all
And that is when, when I start to fall
